

FEBRUARY 2011 NEWS

It saddens me to be sharing the contents of this newsletter with you.

In this day and age I would like to think that we, as the human species, would come from a space of awareness where we would no longer be testing products on animals (sentient beings).

Sadly this is not so.

Please take time to go through the list below of companies that test on animals or who buy their ingredients from companies that test on animals. A phone call or a letter to these companies may not make much difference. What would make a difference is if you stopped buying their products and notified them that you will no longer be supporting their business.
