

Missing Animal Information

Please read this through carefully as it is crucial for you to understand what is taking place.

Should you wish to proceed please email me a photo enabling me to see into the animal's eyes clearly, with the animal's name. I do not physically come to your home.

Looking for a Missing Animal involves communicating telepathically getting as much information as possible. It is soul to soul (clairaudience), heart to heart (clairsentience), mind to mind (clairvoyance) contact with your animal friend.

Animals communicate across a wide spectrum of senses, including images, sound, smell, feelings, sensations and thoughts, doing so very quickly.

When connecting with a missing animal I ask for divine guidance, connecting directly with the animal asking permission for this communication to take place, if permission is granted allowing the animal to pass on images, feelings, sensations, looking through the animals' eyes to see its surroundings, whether it is with people, other animals, injured, happy or crossed over.

This information is passed onto you by email.

What you need to do to help your animal friend is put up posters, contact all the vets, SPCA's and animal shelters, spread the word as the more people that are aware the more eyes you will have on the ground. Walk and drive through your neighbourhood, the area where your animal was last seen as often as possible putting up posters and handing fliers out. While you're out, talk to people letting them know you are looking for your animal friend.

Further what you need to do is visualise your animal friend surrounded in a bubble of white light as this provides it with extra protection, visualise a stream of white light from your heart to your animal's heart because of your close bond this white light will go to wherever it is. Light a white candle with the intension that if it is for your animal's highest good to please return. Tell your animal mentally that you would like it to follow this light and come home if it can.

Focus on sending calming, loving, positive thoughts as the more frantic your are the more frantic your animal will be making it difficult to communicate with it as a frantic animal communicates in a frantic disjointed way.

Important information to please keep in mind animals are highly intelligent creatures with a will of their own.

It has been my experience that very few animals are truly lost, most animals leave for specific reasons which could be anything from a singular traumatic event that occurred to boredom, frustration, lack of exercise, no mental stimulation, the loss of a pack member, family relocation, on-going human negativity and stress that the animal is no longer able to cope with, the introduction of a new member to the pack (animal or human).

As with all souls, we are dealing with free will, if an animal does not wish to communicate I will respect its wishes.

Should the animal not wish to return home, I will not place human will above that of the animal. All information I receive is with the animal's permission, I pledged to respect the animal's wishes at all times.

Animals do not process time the same way that we do, the concepts such as "yesterday" and "two days ago" are meaningless to them. They communicate what is foremost in their mind, even if it happened a few days ago. I am unable to separate what is memory from what is current. Animals do not work with street names, house numbers or "left", "right".

Breakdown The initial session determines whether the animal has crossed over, what state of mind it is in, whether it wants to return home, if it does, asking if it needs your help, if yes getting as much information as possible. Further sessions should the animal wish to return home would be used to get additional information helping the human to then physically go to these places looking for their animal.

I ask for exchange of energy to please take place of R450 for the initial session and should more sessions be necessary R350 thereafter.
